

HOW TO BE AN

ANTIRACIST

SCHOOL LEADER

with
DR. DAMAN
HARRIS

ELEMENTS OF ANTIRACIST LEADERSHIP

- Casting a Vision and Committing to the Challenge of Antiracist Leadership
- Cultivating a Community of Builders and Embracing Resistance
- Elevating Antiracist Learning, Curriculum, and Instruction.

CONNECT WITH DR. HARRIS

 @daman_harris

 Daman Harris

 damanharrisphd@gmail.com

DR. HARRIS is an elementary school principal and an adjunct instructor for McDaniel College and the University of Maryland at College Park, where he teaches courses related to effective teaching methods, conducting research, and cultural proficiency.

Dr. Harris co-leads the Building Our Network of Diversity (or BOND) Project, an initiative that supports the recruitment, development, retention, and empowerment of male educators of color. He speaks to groups around the country about strategies to acquire and maintain a diverse teaching workforce and the development of antiracist school environments.